Urth Animal

Poems, Collages, Ephemera for Marthe Reed

Feng Sun Chen

Paula Cisewski

Haley Lasché

Elisabeth Workman
“By ‘weird’ I mean the Icelandic and Old Norse roots of that word, ‘urth.’ What things are is inextricably looped, twisted or entwined with how they appear, yet different—so things are weird and also fragile, even black holes.”

--Timothy Morton
I THINK IT MEANS SKY TRAM

Dear writing wives
Giraffe babies fall
6 feet to the ground
Like: nothing exists
But everything matters
I love you is a divination Scratching thru whitewash
The earliest examples
Of an alphabet en route To somewhere else
I started writing poetry when I was the objects they’re perceiving.
PORT OF LITTLE I

I want to fold what you wrote & keep it warm in my pocket as a ritual for remembering en route is where it’s at I mean where presence is Jupiter is & is not the way of breath that is not clipped by the next selfcare being the most difficult starling I mean simple start murmur meditation read eye of the year the 16 candles of our relationship like a real teenager—teenager—anyone—animal parable of love in the time of that greedy widget mob politic we will talk about students we will clot the valhalla with our melancholy prose an emergency room’s fluoresce I wanted to go back into the back room the door opened on the first room not the same room the room with the spoons dipped in honey always ready for a guest we talked about labor our attachments in the birth center dream of an emergence room that didn’t call check-in triage did co-exist with the fibers nosing out from the blind root manifold in the compost the red worms gods of the accordion universe
TINY

ache of light points in from silver like everything is so fine without oxygen there is no option like picking up salt on the way home from work leaps from one cool place to the next worry metal will overheat as the cool moon wish for sun even ambiance gives too much light

I am a silhouette against the sheen the children murmur-- spread tinsel between their Fingers words like ooo on the inhale-- a wish to sprout wings SEDIMENTARY

all is luminous when the apogee shirks doom—this in all caps above we are ad libbing and singing plastic pens in our pockets our pants on fire
—an earlier hunch ended there in flames
—less dire
BALLAD OF URTH ANIMAL

You are all the birds at once—the house finches and the jays—and I am the rain avoiding you through dart and weave in the fabric of song.

Your call builds in my throat.

Whether it’s the romance of the sky or the death of romance

we will find our way back to the fold.
This rhythm of a new old self.
PORT THROAT

You pass yourself at every port—until your throat runs dry—you have the ocean left to swallow but you won’t even lift your cup.

I’d like to be the ears to hold you, like shells hold the sounds of the sea.

I haven’t learned to breathe underwater if that’s even being taught these days. When I hold my breath to dive down deep you’ve already headed for land.

And the tides
the tides
the tides
HERE’S ANOTHER BLACK HOLE

stripe iron stockings a leg of green and stroke an arm of je ne sais quoi

I imagine you must know the rest *the night & the--recital break--down into small--pieces like--apples & leaves in--the maggot’s starry mouth *enzyme about the baby green garden *the long haul--luscious hell of it--prime numb--prim um--i’m--cadaverine & kaddish

*I miss--the slow pleasures--of our proximity--their tender accumulations’

* awareness--of objects--in your orbit--which books--for example--witch boots *the detour--detours as here--in my fatigues--I soften--at the thought--of a tiny--maggot ( , )

*& here--in my sickness--I feel--a squirming in my--solar plexus--break down *a squirming about--my practiced--self-pity--as a distracted--way of being--a betrayal--of the hideously--adorable maggot

*the violets &--the gamut break--down *my chevy nova--nova--no--va--& a black hole--break down--but only one--is also--creative *o, u, r, p, o, r, o, u, s, c, h, o, r, o, u, s, c, h, o, r, d, s, r, o, the internet maybe, my desire lit, b, y, t, h, e, a, t, o, f, a, m, b, i, e, n, t, h, e, a, t, o, f, a, m, b, i, h, o, u, n, d, s, c, i, r, c, u, l, a, r, s, o, n, d, asymmetrical wound

*the face—of the future—in the praying mantis—the one you—addressed after—returning from the—edge:

*who are you—king of the world?
my allergen my amethyst my beidermeer my commodity fetishism my crypt keeper my decorated deer, deer twizz-my dear but my dear angora dear muscle memory dear sexting dear self restraint dear crystal suit dear monogreen my cub foods my antelope my accelerator my ambition my arrogance my Nicholas Cage of aloneness dear sizzling potatoes dear wasteland my acid burn my alpenglow my cryptozoologist of the astral plane, who wants to see the money go? dear unpopular dear wallow dear velvet soft soft soft dear art cellar my books my broken - a feeling my euphoria my basilica my binge my art as a metaphor for something else
URTHLINGS’ MOURNIFESTO

***

Who hears harness when the other says no whose impulse is to shame is to shame in the face of sovereignty

***

The body cannot experience time in reverse no one has asked for a time machine this isn't about asking only the other side of the ear

***

Those men know babies come from that urth place they don’t want to hear about.

***

Those women know the men they contain know babies come from that urth place Those women know their tyrants speak for them and write for them they know best know best those women lease their voice as lesser

***

It drives those men to crime to know my body is more parts cavernous than obvious. What invisible planets happen inside--even absent light seems to jealous them.

***

Solvent in their primitive envy some 600 month olds cling to dust their grammar stuck to mine
What is your attachment style?

***

Is living through this retro tantrum--(the dead don’t erupt the same)--while still being able to feel pleasure a more accurate measure of labor?

***

The answer is yes
URTHLINGS ARE EASY
(URZY)

***

My body my my my my Sovereignty my body Supernus in the modern Spelling super body
So many super bodies Uterine supreme Urth supreme Sacred and sublime
Dread sovereign goddess

***

I love my blood who eats supper in the seat next to mine who smiles my same smile my blood who filters through my heart my blood who sheds a skirt down the inside of my legs I wear no gowns but this womb.
I choose my blood.
And I choose not.
BLACK AND WHITE

I am late and had an accident
In my twenties I wrote a manifesto for Panda Who is a giant
And I never imagined living through thousands of bamboo Each day a bamboo, an exaggeration Sugar water squeezed from orphan fears I wasn’t kind to myself Panda did not want to survive, would not have minded Disappearing quietly into the chromatic earth Mental health is not encompassing enough How can I describe the effort Effortlessly the universal furies Spread their feminine wings
How much care has gone into the game
Of this single, shriveled bamboo larva
Of even a species going extinct
Of a marketed product an unmarked target an unknown celeb a square scream How tearful I am, sucking kicking, raking, getting bigger Relentlessly their wings carry us on Bamboo eyelashes of a sleeping giant Riddle me this, what is black and white
And what is matter
And how does it mother
And how is your mother Is she precious, sacred, controlling and trauma like mine?
Is she loved beyond measure like mine?
Did she give birth to a disowned panda like mine?
Is she a microscopic giant like mine?
Is she a god like mine?
This chapbook was created in summer 2019 as part of Dusie Kollektiv 9: “Somewhere in the Cloud and Inbetween”—A Tribute to Marthe Reed.

Many thanks to writing wives Lisa Marie Brimmer, Sarah Fox, and MC Hyland for their influence and cheering in our shared otherspace.

This is #_____ of 25.